

JPG

Inspired by a Song

Guest Curated by Patrick Sansone
of Wilco + The Autumn Defense

25 $19 US/CAN

PLUS TRADITIONS
+
HEROES

Where I'm At: Cell Phone Snaps

JPG CONTRIBUTORS INSTANTLY SHARE MOMENTS IN THEIR LIVES BY USING THEIR HANDY-DANDY CELL PHONE CAMERA.

Ottawa, Canada

Behind a local garden center in Stittsville, I found various shopping carts strewn about, some in need of repair. The sight reminded me of a large mass grave for shopping carts.

Michael Van der Tol

jpgmag.com/photos/2445455

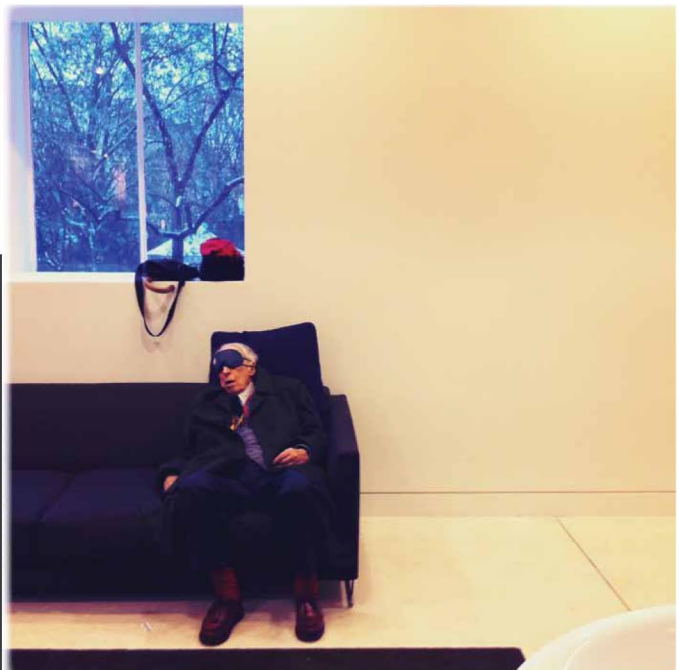

Manhattan, New York

As my husband and I walked past City Hall, it was a pleasant surprise to see through the windows about 15 to 20 couples standing in line waiting to be married. While some couples wore full wedding attire, others were in regular clothes with the women simply holding a bouquet or wearing a veil. I particularly liked this girl, so I tried to be inconspicuous by taking this photo from behind me.

Christa Masters

jpgmag.com/photos/2757251

Paris, France

A few weeks before Christmas, I noticed this man sleeping on a couch in the famous department store, Le Bon Marché, located in the posh neighborhood of Saint-Germain-des-Prés. It seemed as though he had been dragged there by his wife to go shopping, and he fell asleep while guarding her belongings and waiting for her. I thought it was funny that he came equipped with a sleeping mask, so I had to take a picture of him. 📸

Mayumi Pavy

jpgmag.com/photos/2793757